PAN-ELECTRIC COMPANY.

WHAT THE LEADING PAPERS ARE SAYING ABOUT II,

And About the Position of Attorney-General Garland, and the Decision of Secretary Lamar.

New York Herald: "If a judge," says the Evening Post, "is called upon to try a suit against a corporation in he is a stockholder the either refuses to try it or eells his stock." On he same principal, our contemporary argues, Alto ney-Gen-er-l Garland should either give up his Pan-Electric stock or resign his office. This is an apt illustration, but, un-fortunately for the Post, it is a striking and forcible one against its own argument. It very often happens that a judge of the United States Supreme Court or ci our Court of Appeals, or, in short, of any appellate court, is or has been percovally interested in one side of a suit submit ed for adjudication. What is done in such a case? Does the interested judge divest himself of his interest or resign from the bench? Never. He simply declines to take part in the decision of that case, which is heard and decided by the rest of the Court-by his official col eaguer.

Now, this is precisely what Attorney-General Garland has done. He has declined to take any part in the official proceeding sgainst the Bell patent, and the suit will be begun and prosecuted by the government independently of him just as cases have a nundred times been decided by a court independently of one of its members who has declined to sit on account of personal interest

From this judicial illustration the Post argues that neither the Department of Justice nor the administra-tion can properly try the Bell case unless Mr. Garland either disposes of his stock or vacates his office. On the same theory an Appellate Court is not fit to decide a case in which one of its judges is interested unless the judge either divests himself of his interest or leaves the bench.

The Post's zeal against the Attorney-General has evidently got the better of its lozic.

No Compromise is Possible,

New York Times: Our esteemed contemporary, the Evening Post, very obligingly and handsomely fufiles our prediction that it would try to wriggle out of the pit into which we have cast it. It made the attempt last evening. The Times, it assert, in seeking to justify Secretary Lamar's decision allowing the intervention of Telephone Company and its rivals, has cited a precedent "which it apparently does not understand." The Time's contention is, says the Post, that if you wish to have a patent canceled for itsulf the covernment must celed for fraud the government must bring the suit. And our contemporary proceeds as follows:

"It then cites, as an illustration of the superior effectiveness of the Gov-ernment's remedy, the Colgate case, in which the Attorney-General in 1867 brought, at the instance of the West-ern Union Telegraph Company, a suit against Colgate, as the assignee of one Simpson, to determine the validity of a patent for a gutts-percha insulator. The writer in the Times gives the his-tory of the case, and then, with a fatuity which is happily rare, describes it as having ended, not in cancellation, but in-a compromise. In other words, the proceedings terminated just as the suits brought by private parties are apt to terminate. ourselves no doubt what ver that the Pan-Electricians are now in pursuit of exactly what Colgate got. Consequently we are still left without reasons for believing Mr. Lamar's action wise and necessary, but are as open to con-viction as ever."

The statement that we cited the Colgate case "as an illustration of the superior effectiveness of the government's remedy" is painfully inaccurate. Here is what we said: "Morethe procedure by government intervention is the recognized and established procedure in cases where fraud is charged against a patentee."

And we proceeded to cite and set forth the Colgate case, in which Mr. Jay Gould's Western Union Telegraph Company invoked the government's aid against Colgate, whose patent it desired to have carce'ed on the ground that it had been fraudu-lently obtained. There was not a word about "superior effectiveness." And the Post's inference that because the Colgate case terminated in a compromise the Bell case also may terminate in that way is The Colgate case was a small one and obscure. The public never heard of it—certainly the Bell Telephone Company's newspaper organs never heard of it, or they would not have been so rash and foolish as to attack Secretary Lamar's decision. Such a case can be compromised without difficulty. The Bell case can never end in that lame and impotent way. It has made too much noise in the world. The questions it involves are of too great public importance, and the interest of the people in a just determination of these questions is too direct to admit of withdrawal or compromise. So we must courteously but firmly refuse to release the Evening Post from its awkward and tiresome position at the bottom of the pit.
It is our duty, also, to remind our esteemed contemporary that the "Pan-Electricians" are not the only or the principal parties in interest against the Bell telephone monopoly. The government proceedings against that company are instituted to right a wrong, to cancel a fraudulent patent, and the benefits of its actions must accrue to the people. When the Bell patent is annulled, if the suit shall accomplish that most desirable result, the art of transmitting speech by electricity will be open to the public. The evidence that the devices used in that art were known and used prior to Bell's alleged invention is now too complete and too well known to admit of the grazting of another patent. Mr. Garland's Pan-Electric stock, therefore, will be worth ,ather less than its present inappreciable value, when the seals are turn from Bell's letters pat-It is not for that reason, ever, that we urge him to get rid of it.

THEY SAW THE DEVIL. Strauge and Mysterious Occurrence at Harrisburg, Pa.

NEW YORK, February 8 .- The following is published here this morning as a Harrisburg (Pa) special to the World: "News of a strange and mysterious occurrence at Millersburg, Dauphin county, has been received here. On Thursday morning there was a jovial crowd in a hotel at that place, and while they were imbibing Samuel Motter entered. Motter was well known throughout the county as a patent medicine peddler, and was about fifty-five years of age. His wife died in the alms-house some time ago, and since then he has been living near this place. Shortly a ter Motter entered a discussion on religious subjects arose. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was talked about. Motter became very carnest in his talk, and finally dared the men to indulge in an imits ton of the Lord's Supper. They agreed to have it with and bread, and accordingly a glass was filled with that beverage. They then knelt in mock humility, and, with the beer in one hand and the bread in the other, Motter went and, along distributing a bit and a sup to each. Suddenly, when he was about half through, a strange noise was heard, and, looking up, the men saw a sight that "made their blood ran cold and freeze the marrow in their bones." As near at the scared men could de-scribe it, they declare that it was an immense, ill formed and foul beast, with great cloven feet, painted horns and eyes that il shed fire. With wild yells the men rushed into the open air and scattered in every direction. Finally all of them reached their homes except Motter, who was away for a long time, and at last he arrived, a manisc. He was put to bed and physic aus summoned, but they could do nothing for him. He raved, howled and prayed, declaring that he had seen the evil one and that he was lost. His forture was terrible, but nothing could be done to relieve him, and he died in the wildest agony. The deathbed scene is said to have been full of horrors that can hardly be described.

Barton represented himself as an agent for a New York fashion paper, and advertised for a number of salesmen who would be paid $75 per month and all traveling expenses. Applicants for the position were asked to ca'l at the Kimkall House. A number of young men were soon at the Kimball House, eager to get a chance to go to work. Barlon required them to deposit $10 each, as evidence of good faith and to pay for the samples furnished them, the same to be returned after one month's service. Among those swindled way Mr. E. B. RIOTOUS DEMONSTRATION

BY THE STRIKERS IN THE COKE REGIONS.

One Man Killed and Several Injured -Tipple House Burned-Other Damage.

PITISBURG, PA , February 8 .- A serious affray took place this morning at the Henry Cay coke works of Frick & Co., near Bradford. About 300 strikers from Leisening marched this morning to the Henry Clay works, where a few men were at work. When the strikers appeared on the hill above the ovens they began firing on the workmen. They kept up this firing for some little time, but nobody hurt. As they came nearer and their aim was better several men were lightly injured. One of the men who was beaten by the strikers for refusing to quit work a day or two ago, re-turned the fire. He shot several times and bit one of the men, who fell and was carried off by his companions. It is not known how badly he was in-This returning of their fire infuriated the strikers, who set upon William Soisson, the foreman of the men, and gave him a severe beating. The man was left lying on the ground unable to walk or defend himself from stray kicks, which the ricters gave him as they passed to and fro. The strikers then made an attack upon the tipple-house, drove the men in charge out ci it and upset the office stove, which caused the building to be set on fire. The employes of the company made a plucky attempt to put out the fire and save the tipple, but were driven away by the strikers, who surrounded the tipple and guarded it until it was concumed. They allowed the company's employes to attempt to save the bolers aiter the tipple was destroyed. The strikers did not attempt to burn any-thing else, but after remaining at the works a short time longer, they went

but were powerless to do more than IDENTIFY SOME OF THE LEADERS.
At Sterling Sheriff Stawart met the strikers. He had about a dozen depu-ties with him. He made a speech to the strikers, and they seemed dispose to listen to him at first, but when he counseled them to avoid further violence, they hooted him and became very violent. Of course there was no use to try to make arrest; against such odds. The mob then left for Scott-dale, where they are to meet 500 strikers and hold a mass meeting this afternoon. The loss to Frick & Co. by the burning of the tipple will be from $3000 to $4000. Wyatt, the coker in charge, who shot at the strikers, is said to have been slightly wounded by a pistol ball and to have been badly braten la er. Information for niot, arson and assault will be made against the strikers in the outbreak, and wholesale arrests will take place at once.
